

Adjacent Tissues Assessment

Complete the crossword below

Across

2. Macerated skin is often soft and _____
6. This tissue is typically more yellow than adjacent tissue
8. This type of erythema indicates the microcirculation is intact
9. This is the softening of connective tissue fibers
10. Tissue immediately around the wound
11. The severity of this type of edema is measured on a scale of 0-4+
12. Elderly skin may be dry due to impaired _____
13. Hair follicles are important as they are a source of these cells
14. This is the term for asymmetrical edema
17. These are benign tumor like scars

Down

1. A cracked callus may result in this
3. The ABCDE rule is a screening tool for this
4. This is the presence of large amounts of fluid in intercellular tissue spaces
5. This type of thick scar is found in the original wound area
7. These are the result of trauma to the epidermis +/- dermis
9. Protective sensation can be tested using these
15. Cyanotic toes may indicate this
16. New scar tissues appears this bright color